Many Factors Enter Into The Berlin Crisis Says Speaker

Dr. Gerhard Megow, professor of German and French at Murray State College, was the speaker yesterday at the Murray Rotary Club meeting.

Dr. Megow, a native of Germany, spoke on the Berlin situation. He told the club that the crisis now facing the world was a complex situation which would require watching for further developments.

West Berlin is a free area, he said, but it is separated from the rest of the western world by

Local People Attend PCA Meet March 10

Many farm leaders from this area were in Louisville on Tuesday, March 10, for the 25th Anniversary Celebration of Kentucky's production credit associations.

Some 400 people, including farmers who became members in 1934, attended the state-wide affair held in the Flagg Room of the Kentucky Hotel. They were the official representatives of the 18,500 Kentucky farmers who are the members and owners of the state's ten production credit associations. It is through these local credit cooperatives that Kentucky farmers reach into the financial centers of the nation for more than $40,000,000 of farm operating credit annually.

Representing the Jackson Purchase Production Credit Association at this celebration were S. V. Foy, County Extension Agent; Charles Leroy Eldridge, Vocational Agriculture teacher, Murray Training School, and Keys Keel, Local Field Man, PCA. They represented the association's members in Calloway and Marshall counties.

With H. S. Cleveland, Pleasantville, Kentucky, presiding, the morning session was devoted to short talks by one representative from each association in the state and a representative of the Agricultural Extension Service and the vocational agriculture departments. Bob McGaughey, of Hopkinsville, representing the West Ky. Production Credit Association, told the group, "The service rendered by PCAs of the area has enabled many farmers to succeed in the face of apparent failure. This service performed was not available through other farm credit sources in many instances."

Principal speaker for the occasion was John Strohm, Woodstock, Illinois, world traveler and author. He is the first American newspaper correspondent, with State Department permission, to get into Red China since the Korean War. Last fall, during the height of the Quemoy bombardment, he traveled 7,500 miles behind the Bamboo Curtain taking pictures and interviewing hundreds of Chinese. A report of his trip was printed in the January, 1959, issue of Reader's Digest.

Worst Storm Of Dying Winter Is Gradually Easing

The worst storm of the dying winter season eased off to scattered snow flurries in the Northeast today on top of average 10- to 12-inch accumulations in Pennsylvania and New York and up to 34 inches in Maine.

Snow continued during the night in northern New England, leaving a 22-inch blanket of white over much of New Hampshire and Maine. Caribou, Maine, reported 34 inches early today and Rumford, Maine, 26.

The storm raced across the Northeast Thursday, on the anniversary of the great Blizzard of 1888, dumping heavy snows from eastern Ohio into New England. Only an unusual warmup in the midst of the storm, which turned the snow into slush over much of the storm belt, prevented it from turning into a paralyzing blizzard.

Nevertheless, the storm was the season's worst in Boston, hit by six to nine inches of snow, and New York, where more than 11,500 pieces of snow-clearing equipment were pressed into service.

Scores of schools and industries closed, airline flights were grounded and trains and buses were hours late. Traffic jams were common throughout the snow area.

The intense storm, which began Wednesday, was blamed for at least 16 deaths, including 6 each in Ohio and Iowa, 3 in New York state and 1 in Connecticut. Cold weather drove southward into Florida, sending temperatures skidding to 29 degrees early Friday at Cross City, Fla. and near or below freezing elsewhere along the Atlantic coastal states.

Ahead of the cold air, high winds brought gale warnings fluttering from the New England coast to Florida.

Light snow and sleet powered Alabama and Georgia, and northern Virginia got a two-inch snowfall.

The storm, striking nine days before spring, deposited 12 to 16 inches of snow in parts of central Pennsylvania and the mountains, around 16 inches in central and western Massachusetts and 15 inches in eastern New York state.

Dr. Megow was introduced by Julian Evans who was in charge of the program.

Herman Reynolds and Harlan McCarty were visiting Rotarians from Paris, Tennessee. Buck Jones was a guest of James Garrison and W. Z. Carter was a guest of Luther Robertson. Dick Denton was a guest of Bernard Harvey and James Johnson was a guest of Charles Shufflet.

Attendance last week was 94.6 per cent according to a report by Phillip Mitchell.

School Burns But None Injured

CALIFORNIA, Pa. (UPI) — A fire swept the Phillipsburg Elementary School here today shortly after 9 a. m. but all the pupils fled in a matter of minutes.

All available fire equipment was called to the two-story brick building located on Orchard Street. The fire was believed to have started on or near the roof of the school.

Administration Refused Funds For Polio, Combs

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Bert T. Combs accused the administration of Gov. A. B. Chandler and Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield here Thursday night of refusing to allocate funds for polio vaccine in central Kentucky.

Combs said the refusal of a request by the president of the Fayette County Medical Society was an example of the "continued neglect of Kentucky citizens and the continued self-glorification of a man who has made a mockery of high office and responsibility."

The former appellate judge, who is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said, "Chandler found $42,000 to publish 100,000 copies of a magazine pushing his candidacy for president."

Combs listed as another example of "Chandlerism" the withdrawal of state funds from Kentucky banks as a "reprisal" against bankers who supported state Treasurer Henry Carter in a fight against a "rip-off" bill. He also charged that the Waterfield-Chandler administration killed tobacco research bills in the 1958 General Assembly.

Combs who spoke to University of Kentucky students at a lunch earlier Thursday, was scheduled to campaign in New Castle and Bedford today.

Mrs. Burt has announced that precinct chairwoman will be named at a later date.

Hearing Scheduled On Freezing Of Tobacco Supports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Agriculture subcommittee Thursday scheduled a hearing for March 25 to hear opponents of a bill to freeze 1959 support prices on tobacco at levels of last year. The measure, which has wide support among tobacco growers, would fix minimum support prices at 90 per cent of the so-called "old parity" price or the 1958 support level, whichever is higher.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Tamm Benson has termed the bill "superior" to present law because it would eliminate use of the modernized parity formula under which minimum price supports of tobacco have been forced to higher levels almost each year.

Benson has indicated he wants authority from Congress to go even further and reduce tobacco supports from present levels but there appears to be little chance that Congress will approve.

In announcing the hearings on the bill sponsored by Rep. W. P. Jennings, D-Va., Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C. said, "just about everybody seems to be in favor of the Jennings Bill and no one has yet appeared in opposition."

Controversy Rages On Maja In The Mails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is planning to take up the burning question: When is an artistic masterpiece just plain cheesecake?

The particular masterpiece or possibly cheesecake in mind is Francisco Goya's painting "The Naked Maja"—a Spanish lady who lounges about in only an ambiguous loincloth.

The New York post office has banned an attempt by United Artists to send copies of the lady's portrait through the mail as an aid for a new movie. United Artists is fighting the ban in the courts.

To Explore Situation

Chairman Kathryn E. Granahan, D-Pa. of the House postal operations sub-committee announced her subcommittee will "thoroughly explore" the entire situation immediately.

Mrs. Granahan said the subcommittee hoped that the postmaster general's arm "is strong enough" to prevent the sending of obscene literature through the mails.

But she said if it isn't, the subcommittee intends "to develop and recommend legislation which will give him the necessary tools."

She brushed aside arguments that the post office was censoring art because the bare lady whom Goya immortalized in oils in 1785 is not a girlie pinup but a great masterpiece known throughout the world.

"Perilous Consequences" Are Seen In The Berlin Crisis

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower told a spending-sensitive Congress today that the United States may have to step up its military aid to other countries because of Russia's threat to Europe.

In submitting his foreign aid program in a special 7,000-word message to Congress, Eisenhower took particular note of the Berlin crisis and said it could have "perilous consequences" if Soviet threats are unchecked.

He appealed for approval of the $3,900,000,000 mutual security program of arms and economic aid to free world allies which he originally had outlined in his precariously-balanced fiscal 1960 budget.

May Need More
The President bluntly told Congress the Soviet threat in Europe might require a later increase in his request for $1,600,000,000 in military aid for fiscal 1960 beginning July 1.

The message went to a Democratic-controlled House and Senate where there are strong signs of potential opposition to foreign aid spending.

Some influential legislative leaders have made it plain they want to trim his foreign aid request as an economy move. They also argue that such cuts would allow more money for programs needed at home including more U. S. defense forces.

Eisenhower grimly portrayed the growing Communist ability to launch nuclear war, plus the willingness of the Kremlin to use their atomic and hydrogen weapons as a threat to the free world.

While noting particularly the crisis over Berlin, the President told Congress:

"We also know that even local aggressions, unless checked, could absorb nation after nation into the Communist orbit or could flame into world war."

Preliminary indications from his special commission studying the military aid program, he said, point to an additional "increase in the level of commitments for vital elements of the military assistance program, primarily for the provisions of weapons to the NATO area."

The President said he expects a written, interim report from the commission shortly. He promised to make further recommendations.

Good Strings Of Fish Being Taken On State Lakes

FRANKFORT (UPD) — Fishermen are getting good strings of white bass, sauger and crappie below Kentucky Dam in the Tennessee River, the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources reported Thursday.

Little action has been reported on the lakes elsewhere in the state.

Rains have swollen the north and south forks of the Cumberland River at the headwaters of Lake Cumberland and this has interfered with walleye catches.

At Kentucky Lake, some crappie have been caught from the banks of tributaries. The lake itself is generally clear with some murky water in the tributaries.

Herrington Lake is muddy from the headwaters to below Chenault Bridge and murky water extends further down the lake. Bass catches are the best bet in murky water with some hitting on deep-running lures in clear sections.

Crappie tops the offerings of Lake and have been caught around brush piles and fallen tree tops at six foot depths.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life. —Revelation 2:10.

There are no unknown soldiers in God's army.

NOW HE TELLS US

DEAN ACHESON, the fellow who prepared a "white paper" on South Korea in the best British style, stating that Republic was not in our "sphere of defense," thereby inviting the North Koreans and Red Chinese to inflict 135,000 casualties on Americans before General Dwight D. Eisenhower could end the needless slaughter, is back in the news.

He tells us we rate only one to three with Russia on guided missiles and nuclear fission weapons. Also that we are making a fatal mistake to try to balance the budget and limit expenditures for the army, navy, air force and missile programs. He hasn't the slightest idea what it would cost to keep up with Russia in land forces and modern weapons, but he hazarded a "rough guess" on television yesterday that it would be "in the neighborhood of five billion dollars."

With Secretary of State John Foster Dulles stricken with cancer, on the eve of the Berlin deadline May 27th, it was to be expected that Harry S. Truman would seize the lime-light, but we honestly believed we were through with Dean Acheson. Just why the Saturday Evening Post thought his views on present-day problems are important enough to buy, probably at premium rates, we will never understand.

If Acheson sees danger in the present Berlin crisis he is largely to blame for it. He can share the blame with Harry S. Truman, our head man at Potsdam, Alger Hiss who wrote the so-called "Yalta agreement" which gave Manchuria and North Korea to the Reds, and former Prime Minister Clement Atlee, the English Socialist who sat with Truman at Potsdam and witnessed Stalin carve Germany and divide one of the world's greatest cities, Berlin, a hundred miles behind the Iron Curtain.

Mr. Acheson is right when he says we face a crisis. He could have added that we are in a mess, thanks to his type of diplomacy which took us into war without the consent of Congress, then removed General Douglas MacArthur from his duties because he was hard-headed enough to insist on winning it.

With conditions as they are we think the visit of Clement Atlee is untimely. We also think Acheson should hold his peace as his foreign policy has been totally discredited. As for Harry S. Truman, he has been completely harmless ever since he left the White House under terms of an amendment to the United States Constitution which prevented him from following the lead of his predecessor, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt who built an unbeatable political machine with tax revenue used in the form of subsidies for almost every organized minority pressure group in the land.

None of us like the kind of peace we have to endure while we are in a state of "cold war." We prefer it to what Truman, Atlee, and Acheson cooked up for us in Korea through the first "white paper" America ever issued, to say nothing of the Berlin air-lift which added so much to the national debt, and caused the spilling of American blood.

When President Eisenhower recently stated at one of his press conferences that he believes he is a better judge of what we need in a military way for our defense than some of his critics, such as those we are discussing, we believe him.

Those who may doubt his ability along this line should read the articles currently appearing in the Saturday Evening Post on the Normandy invasion which took place fifteen years ago under his command and which the world, including Russia and Germany, now proclaim as the greatest military, naval and air operation in history.

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Once when Jack Dempsey was being syndicated nationally in a newspaper series under his byline he halted a friend at a newsstand while digging for change.

"Wait just a minute," the old Manassa Mauler said. "I want to find out what I'm saying today."

Dempsey, of course, was being quoted by what is termed in the trade as a "ghost writer." This is an eerie laborer in the world of the printed word who writes under the byline of a personality—and sometimes even gets to talk to the guy he's quoting.

Like in the case of Pancho Gonzales.

The pro tennis champion has just hit the stands with his autobiography. While in New York to play, Pancho allowed that he had "five or six more years" as boss of the pro net troupe.

"But," countered a listener, "you say in your autobiography that the 'ghost' who for some strange reason, wanted some facts with which to work, sent Ruth a return wire demanding more information for the story he had to write under Ruth's name. The reply was immediate."

"Hit two. Fast balls. Send Check."

Then there was the star who was looking for his "ghost" with a baseball bat when the eerie one predicted, in the first of a series of stories on the World Series, that the star's underdog team would win in four straight.

He was furious at being "made to look like a monkey." But of course the star took all the bows, modestly, naturally, when his prediction came true.

Bob Considine once "ghosted" the late Mort Cooper through a World Series. They were fine stories, full of inside baseball lore, replete with tactics and strategy and completely authentic. Mort took lots of bows.

Consider, had, only one comment: "Some day I'd like to meet him."

Somebody ought to introduce Gonzales to his man, too.

you figure you only have about three years left."

Pancho never missed a beat. "When I read it," he grinned, "I found out lots of things that I had forgotten."

Ghosting Nothing New
Ghost writing is, of course, nothing new. It has been used in such diverse fields as politics, after dinner speaking, commencement addresses, autobiographies and even for Ph.D.'s.

The U.S. Supreme Court once took a whack at them as legal frauds and in 1933 there was a play on Broadway called "The Ghost Writer."

The anonymous men behind the typewriters have their problems, too. Particularly in sports where a good man of the bylined bleep men all too frequently are endowed with the ears with muscle, too. This is not to insinuate that such diagnostic stars of the late World Series as Lew Burdette, Mickey Mantle, Red Schoendienst, and Roy Campanella fit in this category. I will tell you that one of them is, and you can take your choice.

Kenny Dalton, star forward of the Gophers, took game scoring honors and paced the Fancy Farm attack with 20 points in a poor shooting contest. Dalton also took a lion's share of the rebounds snatching 21. Fancy Farm out-rebounded its opponents 55-30.

Den Wyatt topped Clinton in Central's effort with 13 points and snagged 11 rebounds. Clayton Myers, only other Red Devil, hit 11 in the double figure, picked up 11 points.

Both teams had a lot of difficulty in sinking field goals as shot after shot rimmed off. Clinton hit 31 per cent connecting on 13 baskets in 42 tries. Fancy Farm had an even lower 27 per cent getting only 18 of 66 attempts. The Red Devils pushed in 12 of 19 tosses from the grail for 28 per cent and the Golden Gophers flipped in 17 of 24 for a respectable 71 per cent.

Clinton committed 17 fouls and Fancy Farm 13.

Holding a seven point advantage at the end of the third period, 33-26, the Gophers quickly built up a 14-point margin and held it throughout the period for a final 53-38 count. Trailing by five points at the end of the third period, 20-15, the Red Devils held their own in the third canto but were never able to pull closer than five points when substitute Bill Hiett pushed in a fielder for a 19-24 count.

The game got off to a slow start as both teams had difficulty in finding the range. Dalton finally broke the ice and Fancy Farm led 2-0. Sim Harper tabbed a bucket for the Red Devils and then the Gophers climbed to an 8-4 lead. Wyatt picked up a charity toss at the close of the period and Clinton trailed by three, 5-8.

Clinton broke into the lead early in the second period and held a 14-10 edge but David Ballard and Donald Kileoyne pushed in two buckets and a couple of charity tosses to put Fancy Farm back on top, 16-14. The Gophers continued to up the count and a fielder by Dalton just before the horn sounded enabled the Golden Gophers to take a 20-15 margin to the dressing room at halftime.

Carl Hughes, playing a forward spot, got Fancy Farm off to a good start in the second game with a fielder but Jennings retaliated after a minute of scoreless play and a nip and tuck first quarter ensued. The score tied four times in the first quarter. Lowes finally broke on top 13-11 on the strength of Nicholson's free throws in the closing seconds.

Ballard went scoreless for three minutes in the second quarter and the Blue Devils extended their lead to seven points, 20-13. Dexter put the Bombers back into the scoring but Lowes' Gouley tag-over and paced the Blue Devils to a 31-21 halftime margin.

The determined Bombers refused to give up and narrowed the gap back to 10 points, 37-27, with 6:20 left in the quarter but Terrell Holt, who came into the ball game at half as a substitute guard for the Blue Devils, continued to blister the netting and Lowes ramped away to 50-32 third canto margin.

Lowes continued its romp in the final canto over the defeated Ballard and led from 20 to 28 points throughout the period. Mike Soper, Ballard substitute in the closing seconds, picked up a couple of baskets to trim the margin to 18 points, 55-74, as the final horn sounded.

Fancy Farm, Lowes Win; North Meets Tilghman

Ledger & Times Sports Writer

By JAMES LEE HARMON

Fancy Farm's Golden Gophers romped away in the final quarter of the basketball game over the Clinton Central Red Devils and Lowes advanced to the semi-finals by pulling away from determined Ballard in the second half to set back the Bombers 74-56 before a crowd of 3,000 at the MSC Sports Arena last night.

The score tied four times in the first quarter. Lowes finally broke on top 13-11 on the strength of Nicholson's free throws in the closing seconds.

Ballard went scoreless for three minutes in the second quarter and the Blue Devils extended their lead to seven points, 20-13.

Dexter put the Bombers back into the scoring but Lowes' Gouley tag-over and paced the Blue Devils to a 31-21 halftime margin.

The determined Bombers refused to give up and narrowed the gap back to 10 points, 37-27, with 6:20 left in the quarter but Terrell Holt, who came into the ball game at half as a substitute guard for the Blue Devils, continued to blister the netting and Lowes ramped away to 50-32 third canto margin.

Lowes continued its romp in the final canto over the defeated Ballard and led from 20 to 28 points throughout the period.

Mike Soper, Ballard substitute in the closing seconds, picked up a couple of baskets to trim the margin to 18 points, 55-74, as the final horn sounded.

Jerry Newton, be-spectacled

Ballard guard, led the Bombers with 15 points.

Donnie Lanier topped the Blue Devils with 17 points. Terrell Holt pushed in 15 points for Lowes, all in the second half. It was Holt that paced the Blue Devils to victory in the overtime play with Fancy Farm in the district finals.

Lowes hit a good 51 per cent of its field goal attempts making good 29 of 57 while Ballard managed only 33 per cent with 20 attempts in 60 tries.

Ballard picked up 16 of 28 charity tosses for 57 per cent and Lowes connected on 16 of 22 shots from the free throw line for 73 per cent.

Lowes was charged with 21 personal fouls and Ballard committed 15 personal fouls. Ballard snared 40 rebounds in comparison to 45 for the Blue Devils.

Is a new suit a good luck charm for a coach on the eve of Friday the 13th? Be that as it may the Lowes mentor, Rex Smith, was decked out in a new suit last night as compliments of the Lowes fans.

Semi-final action tonight pitted favored North Marshall with dark horse Tilghman in the upper bracket while Lowes and Fancy Farm meet for the fifth time in a now even 2-2 series this season.

The upper bracket contest gets underway at 7:00 and the lower bracket game is tentatively set for 8:30. A good crowd is expected to be on hand tonight as most fans seem to feel closer action will be in the making.

Whatever Happened To

WEAR SCHOONOVER

United Press International

Wear Schoonover, a football end at Arkansas in the late 1920's, was one of the finest Southwest Conference football players to achieve national recognition.

The late Grantland Rice who picked him on a 1929 all-star team, said it was "impossible" to gain a yard without Schoonover. The star end's record of catching 12 passes against Baylor still is a school record and so is a 96-yard run with a pass interception.

Whatever happened to Wear Schoonover? Now 54, he has been an attorney with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington since 1935 and was one of the first five athletes honored in the newly established Arkansas sports Hall of Fame.

Weekly TVA Newsletter

TVA's forestry program has been primarily one of fact finding, testing, and demonstration. Ken- neth J. Seigworth, Chief of the Forest Development Branch, re- cently told the Tennessee Small Woodland Conference at Nash- ville.

"We believe," he said, "it has been beneficial to all woodland owners large and small, and to the forest industries which pro- vide a market for timber grow- ers."

"Over the past 25 years we have tried to help the states extend and improve fire protection; to provide adequate quantities of tree seedlings; to test and demonstrate management practices; to improve utilization — especially sawmill utilization practices; to provide resource data useful in attract- ing new forest industries or ex- panding old ones."

"We believe these efforts have made 'more favorable' the physical and economic climate for the practice of forestry, have added to the resource base of the region, and have enhanced the market for forest products. TVA expects to continue this cooperative pro- gram of information and demon- stration with appropriate and timely adaptations."

Mr. Seigworth said that direct assistance or service programs such as tree marking, or assist- ance in arranging for a timber sale, are functions for state and private agencies.

He said that ways should be found to publicly recognize wood- land owners who are carrying out good forestry practices.

"There is a real need for public recognition of those who are pro- ducing high quality timber crops. Everyone recognizes the need for weeding a corn field, but the farmer who does a weeding job in his woods is still regarded as a bit odd."

He said public recognition of woodland owners will help speed up the process of social accep- tance and people will generally do what they should do in their own interests when it becomes the socially accepted thing to do.

FARMERS !!

Do you plan to swap tractors, trade cars or trucks, build dairy barns, buy livestock or make other ma- jor improvements? If so and you don't have the cash, you owe it to yourself to investigate PCA's plan for financing this kind of investment. The Jackson Purchase Production Credit Association has a plan that is especially tailored for farmers and is convenient and economical.

1. Loans are made for one to five years.
2. Payments are due when crops and live- stock are sold.
3. Interest is figured only on the number of days the money is used.
4. There is an adequate supply of money at all times.
5. No co-signer is required.
6. All capital stock is owned by local farm- ers.
7. Loans may be covered by credit life insur- ance.

PCA also makes loans to purchase fertilizer, seed, fuel, and for other operating expenses. More of the better farmers are using the Pro- duction Credit plan to finance their farm pro- grams.

For a dependable convenient loan that will make you money, see Keys Keel at the Jackson Purchase Production Credit Association for your credit needs.

Girls Scout News

"YOU CAN COUNT ON HER"
"You can count on her to be of service" is one of the themes of 3 1/2 million Girl Scouts throughout the United States. Murray Girl Scouts are no exception. They have found many ways to be of service to their community.

Troop 22 under the leadership of Mrs. W. H. Solomon took Christmas gifts to the orphanage at Paradise Friendly Home near Tri-City, Kentucky.

They wrote Mr. Murdoch, superintendent of the orphanage, and asked for the children's names, ages, and what they wanted for Christmas. After studying the Christmas desires of the twenty-four children (that ranged in age from 5 years to 16 years old) it seemed almost impossible for our troop to furnish these gifts as they had only twelve dollars to spend. What a challenge to furnish these children with such a small amount!

Now the list was complete except for the missing items on the list. We knew that Girl Scouts never ask for donations so they took their letter with the children's names, ages, and wishes, and presented it to the different stores and if anyone wanted to help we accepted it. In record time they had filled the list and had extra gifts that weren't even on the list. Mr. Alford Lindsey gave them two watches but they still needed 2 more. One of the Scouts' mother told our problem to Mr. Richard Tuck and he sold them two watches for twelve dollars. Now the list was complete except for the missing items on the list.

One troop meeting was spent in gift wrapping these presents. Then on December 19th, all the girls in Troop 22, along with their leader, and three mothers; Mrs. Donald Crawford, Mrs. H. Williams, and Mrs. John L. Williams, delivered the Christmas gifts to the children at Paradise Friendly Home.

The girls in Troop 22 had decided early in December not to exchange gifts as this would be a Christmas for giving instead of receiving. We all returned home feeling that truly the old Bible truth was so true. "It's more blessed to give than receive."

Troop 4, Leaders Mrs. Edmund Steytler and Mrs. Bonnie Crouch. In the fall of 1958, Troop 4 became interested in the School of New Hope, a recently organized school in Murray for retarded children. The troop invited the director, Miss Frances Bradley, to talk to the group one evening and learned from her what Scouts could do to help the school.

At Miss Bradley's request, the troop spent several meetings making bean bags of various designs and sizes for the children. These were to be used for free play as well as help in coordination. Miss Bradley reported that the bean bags were received with delight and played with until their seams had to be reinforced.

Several meetings after this, the troop met and prepared a box of toys for these children. Some were repaired or painted. Others were in good condition to begin with. That week after school the girls went after their school was out to the School of New Hope where they put up a Christmas tree; they had bought with the happy assistance of several of the children who had stayed late to help and decorated it with the lights and trimmings, with the help of some new. Later the scout leader delivered the box of toys; and a note later from Miss Bradley assured the girls that Christmas had been merrier for the children of New Hope because of their efforts.

During the holidays, the troop went caroling, with particular emphasis on the Murray Rest Home. Old folks living there were cheered by the young voices and faces made more shiny than usual by lighted candles carried by each girl.

Troop 23, Leader Mrs. Herbert Hughes. On February 21st, Troop 23 visited the Friendly Paradise Orphanage home at Bell City. Each Scout took either new or used books and games.

We inspected the new building which is nearing completion, met twenty-four children now living in the home and made snapshots.

We were much impressed by the great work that is being done in giving these children a clean and happy environment. We realized that we have much to be thankful for with our good homes, loving parents and many opportunities.

We believed that this visit will make us want to take advantage of our many opportunities to become better Scouts and better citizens. We hope the games and books will provide many hours of entertainment for these children.

Scouts who made the trip to the home were: Paula Albritten, Nancy Buey, Cathy Berry, Kathryn Williams, Troop 23, Owen Jones, Peggy Colson, Kay Hughes, Nancy Cowin, Vicki Ellis, Phyllis McNutt, Sharon Hopkins, Gail McClure, and Marilyn Hopkins.

Others were Mrs. Iva Buey, Mrs. Imogene McClure, Mrs. Herbert Hughes, Janice Hughes, Karen McClure and Pam Garland.

Troop 26 Leader Mrs. Freida Smith. Troop 26 on Valentine Day took baskets of fruit to the Murray Rest Home. Each girl brought 3 pieces of fruit to their troop meeting and helped prepare the baskets. The girls also made Valentine Cards for each member of the rest home.

Troop 15, Leader Mrs. Everett Outland. Senior Girl Scout Troop 15 has been doing Nurses Aide work at the Murray Hospital this year. In Sept. troop 15 took a course in hospital Nurses Aide under Mrs. Lucille Ross, Superintendent of nurses at Murray Hospital.

After completing this course each girl agreed to donate at least 4 hours of work a week to the hospital. Some of her duties are: Arranging flowers, serving trays, setting up trays, making beds, messenger service, answering calls, assisting in surgical supplies and any other way they can to help the nurses in their duties.

These Girl Scouts are giving a service beneficial not only to the Murray Hospital but the community as well.

Troop 21, Leader Mrs. Arlo Sprunger. Giving service is an important part of the Girl Scout Promise. When you say "to help other people at all times" you mean that you are willing and ready to give service. Every badge in the Girl Scout program has suggestions for service projects. In Troop 21 we have been working on the "My Trefoil Badge". This is a new badge in the Intermediate program designed to help Junior High girls better understand the meaning of the

"EXTREMELY EXPLOSIVE AREA"—Francois Duvalier, president of the Republic of Haiti, believes the situation in the Caribbean area is "so extremely explosive" that "the United States should take immediate steps to assume full responsibility for maintenance of peace" there, according to a story copyrighted by UPI. The story also said former Haitian Senator Louis Dejoie is leading a movement of other Haitian expatriates in Cuba for a revolutionary invasion attempt against Haiti within 30 days. Cuban Premier Fidel Castro says he will aid in an attempt to overthrow Dominican Republic President Hector B. Trujillo. (Central Press)

Promise they made when they were 10 years old. One of the activities for this badge was "do one or more service projects related to 'duty to God' and 'duty to Country'". At Christmas we contributed clothes, toys and food. We have done baby sitting for free so mothers could attend P-TA meetings and go to the poles to vote.

Troop 21 has plans for carrying out a home and community safety campaign. We would like to work some conservation project with another group in town, in so doing our town a better community.

Magazine Warns Of Nutria Menace

NEW YORK (UPI)—The nutria, a South American rodent imported into the U.S. less than 40 years ago for its fur, is reported threatening to become a national menace by 1965.

An army of the huge swamp rats is said to be eating its way across the country, destroying marshland and farm crops and defying all attempts to eradicate the scourge.

Already, according to True Magazine, nutria colonies have spread from Louisiana to Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, Nevada, New Mexico, Ohio, Oregon, Texas, Utah and Washington.

The magazine said they thrive on rat poison, that strychnine merely makes their fur glossier and that any chemical deadly enough to kill nutria would also wipe out other wildlife. Scientists were reported at a loss to find a solution to the problem.

NIGHTMARE IN THE ALPS—The high mountains surrounding the Swiss Alpine village of Herbrigen, a source of beauty in the summer and normally a protection from the elements in the winter, has spawned a menace. High up on one of the rocky slopes a mighty avalanche grew ominously, and threatens to hurtle down and destroy the village nestled below. Most of the 215 hardy villagers have abandoned their homes, leaving only a few men to stand guard. The dread sight of a cloud of snow (left photo) will be the first indication that the landslide has started its plunge. Government says immediate danger is past, but residents refuse to move back into their homes.

British Alter Law Affecting Mental Health

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press International
LONDON (UPI) — The British government has moved to end the age-old fear of mental patients that they may be locked up for life.

It also has taken steps to erase the stigma from mental illness by abolishing official use of the terms "imbecile" and "idiot." These are two major provisions of a new mental health bill prepared by the government. It has been described as the most sweeping revamping of Britain's mental legislation in more than a century.

Henceforth, mental patients will be able to obtain as much treatment as possible, both inside and outside of the hospital, on a voluntary basis.

The bill also will make it more difficult to compel anyone to be held as a mental patient.

The main provisions of the bill follow recommendations made by a royal commission set up to study mental health legislation in this country. The commission presented its report last May.

Under the bill, no one can be detained for mental reasons without an application signed by two physicians, one of whom must be a psychiatrist. Previously a certificate from one doctor was sufficient.

Special mental hospitals will be abolished. In the future, mental patients will be treated in psychiatric wards of ordinary hospitals.

The Board of Control, which at present hears all applications for release from mental hospitals, will be abolished. It will be replaced by 15 mental health review tribunals.

All mental patients will have the right to appeal to their local tribunal within six months after being detained. No mental patient can be held for more than three years at a time without his case being reviewed by one of the tribunals. The present period is five years.

The bill was expected to go through Parliament without much trouble, although there may be a long close look at the changes in procedure for compulsory admission to mental wards.

The new legislation has been hailed by two members of Parliament who have headed parliamentary agitation for a thorough revamping of Britain's antiquated mental laws — Conservative Dr. Donald Johnson and Laborite Norman Dodds. They said it could mark "the beginning of a new era in mental health."

The bill also was welcomed warmly by the British press. The conservative Daily Mail said it "ranks among the really great pieces of legislation." The conservative Daily Express described it as "the most sweeping in its field for a century."

However, there has been one note of caution. It was expressed by the liberal Manchester Guardian when it said the large number of releases of mental patients likely under the bill would throw a heavy burden on the nation's community services.

PETTY LARCENY

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — David Alexander, 6, complained that two young robbers robbed him in broad daylight while he was on his way home from school—and then added insult to injury. "What makes me so mad," said David, was that "when they turned across the street to a candy store and spent my whole six cents right there."

Atom Age Health, Study Subject

CHICAGO (UPI) — The long-range impact of nuclear energy on public health will be studied by a special unit set up at the University of Chicago, the birthplace of the atomic age.

Dr. Lowell T. Coggeshall, dean of the university's Division of Biological Sciences, said the unit, called the Section on Nuclear Medicine, will explore:

—The increase in natural background radiation due to by-products of all current uses of nuclear energy devices.

—The actual or probable consequences — genetic and physiological — of the increased exposure to radiation.

—Medico-legal aspects of personal injury and compensation problems of personnel engaged in the nuclear energy industry.

—The psychological reactions of society to the threatening aspects of nuclear energy.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the world for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	14	1-9
Monday	Mark	2	1-12
Tuesday	Mark	5	25-34
Wednesday	Mark	7	31-37
Thursday	Mark	7	31-37
Friday	Mark	7	31-37
Saturday	Mark	10	46-52

How often, when Dad would finish reading the Bible, he would hold the Book gently in his hands and look out the window. . . . I used to wonder what he saw—what vision against the setting sun? . . . And once I blurted the tremendous question: "Daddy, can you see God?" He kept on gazing off into space, but a smile crossed his lips. "No, son, a man doesn't see God! He feels God. And then he looks out his window and sees the world in a different light." I grew up to discover what he meant. His Bible—his Church—his convictions have become mine. And when I look at the world . . . it's through Dad's window. One day my son will grow up . . .
